DEFENDS THE CHILD

Dr. Thomas Rotch, of Harvard,
Lectures Before G. W. U.

DEVELOPMENT IS DISCUSSED

Would Determine Child's Capacity to Work More by Physical Ability than by Age—Thinks Lawmakers
Have Made an Error—Welcomed to the Capital by Mr. Macfarland.

Before an appreciative audience last night Dr. Thomas Morgan Rotch, of Harvard University, gave a lecture in the assembly room of George Washington University on "The use of the Roentgen ray in a revision of the laws relating to child labor and education."

Dr. Rotch has spent years in the study of children and the question of child labor. He demonstrated the fallacy of determining whether a child should be allowed to work because he had arrived at the proper legal age. He contended that physical development, instead of age, should be considered when laws are being made for the protection of children. The rule, if followed, would improve the human race, he contended.

Their Working Capacity.

Dr. Rotch said that up to the present time the working capacity of an individual has been computed by years, but when the age question is brought to bear on the school system, whether in classifying or grading children as to their studies, or in putting them against one another in athletic sports, it becomes a serious question whether chronological age is a wise division during the formative period of early life.

He contended that when a child was allowed to work according to a given age, instead of physical development, it was a great mistake.

Dr. Rotch asserted he was in favor of child-labor laws in the States, providing that they were beneficial to the children instead of their employers.

More than 100 stereoscopic views were given, showing the gradual physical development of children, and tending to support Dr. Rotch's contentions.

Commissioner Henry B. F. Macfarland, in his welcoming address, said this city is always open to distinguished visitors. He said that in the twentieth century education which the state can give, said the Commissioner.

Among those present were Judge Alexander B. Hagner, who presided, Commissioner of Labor Neil, Dr. Blair Spencer, President Neidham, of George Washington University; Bishop Harding, Dr. Thomas S. Lee, and H. B. F. Macfarland.

Would Establish Boulevard.

The establishment of a boulevard along the Mall from the Capitol to the river, as a memorial to President Lincoln, is suggested in a letter received by Commissioner Macfarland yesterday, signed by Mrs. F. S. Hodgson, of 254 Woodland street northwest. It is suggested that each State erect a stone column on the road, making a universal expression from the people.

WAKELEE'S CAMELLINE

For Preserving and Beautifying the Complexion.
Come in and get a sample.

This California discovery has been before the public for thirty years, and wherever known has rapidly superseded creams, balms, and powders, as instead of the unnatural hue obtained through them, it imparts to the complexion a youthful and natural appearance without revealing the fact of any application. Its use removes all traces of sallowness and most cutaneous defects, the skin regaining softness and purity of color. Its popularity is also due to the fact that it is the only preparation for the complexion which is harmless, and commands the scientific approval of physicians. Most cosmetics contain poisons which in time ruin the complexion, and which, absorbed through the skin, frequently produce partial paralysis or other forms of poisoning. No body can safely use cosmetics which are not sanctioned by the medical profession.
